A few notes about Samos Wine Museum:

The Samos Wine Museum is housed in a magnificent 19th-century stone building, which originally operated as a private winery and later as a warehouse and barrel-making facility. It turned into a Museum in 2005, it displays artifacts of the defining history of Samos wine:

Old photographs and production records, vineyards and a depiction of dry-stone mountain terraces, “the cottage” in the vineyards, harvesting and manual presses, collectible bottles, barrel-making tools, old winemaking machinery and the huge wooden tanks dating back to the previous century with capacities of up to 80 tons.

The visitor can also see some of the hundreds of prestigious international awards that the wines of UWC SAMOS have been receiving for decades.

Being content from history, the visitor is now “thirsty” for “krasi”, the Greek word for wine, or “oenos”, as the ancient Greeks called it. The wines of the UWC SAMOS are available for purchase at the special retail counter where one can also find authentic, local agricultural products from the producers-members of the Cooperative.
